Public Sale of Liquor Issue to be Presented To Voters Nov. 2

Petitions were filed this week to place the issue of public sale of liquor on the premises before the voters of East Jordan at the general election to be held on Tuesday, November 2.

The petitions were filed by the Michigan Table Top Licensees' Congress on request of a number of local citizens who expressed a desire to see the public sale of alcoholic beverages in East Jordan in the manner that they are handled on most Michigan cities.

The petitions were filed with the city clerk and containe more than the required number of signatures of qualified East Jordan voters.

It was pointed out that East Jordan may have a maximum of two cocktail lounges if the measure is approved by the voters. Sponsors of the move said all but a very few communities in the northern part of the state now permit public sale of liquor on the premises.

In a statement, the Table Top group, pointed out that communities which prohibit sale to the public are losing a vast amount of tourist business. They emphasized that such resort cities as Cheboygan, Charlevoix, Elk Rapids, Kewadin, Kalkaska, Traverse City, Gaylord, Beulah, Mackinaw City and many others all have cocktail bars that attract visitors.

Under the legislative quota system no new licenses could be issued in East Jordan if the measure is approved, but present license holders could qualify for liquor licenses if they made improvements in their establishments.

A large number of East Jordan business men and veterans have expressed themselves as whole heartedly in favor of the proposal.

Mrs. Lulu Clark left Friday for Oklahoma where the National meeting of Extension Club Representatives meet this year.

East Jordan Study Club Met Wed., Sept. 29 at Mrs Rose Adair's

Mrs. Rose Adair opened her home Wednesday evening, Sept. 29th, to the East Jordan Study Club, with Mrs. Clarissa Goodman and Mrs. Eleanor Scott as assistant hostesses. Twenty members and one visitor were present to answer to roll call.

President, Mrs. Esther Porter, opened the meeting in usual form. Parliamentarian for the year, Mrs. Frances Benson, gave a very instructive and interesting lecture on Parliamentary Law. We learned how to obtain the floor, when and why a motion is laid on the table, how to dispose of a question, how to limit debate on a question, (wouldn't some of our husbands like to know what we know now?) and many other rules of governing a law making body. A true school "Mom" at heart Frances could not let us get by without some kind of a reminder that we should have soaked some of it in. The reminder, a true and false questionaire, and believe it or not the marks were all above average. Why certainly we corrected our own papers. The Club agreed on one question one hundred per cent, even if Gabriel Heater does not agree with us, some day a woman will be President of this United States of America.

Mrs. Eva Porter read a very interesting letter to the club from a family in Germany. The Porter's have been corresponding with this family for some time. The letter contained many interesting facts about Germany. The correspondence was started after Mr. Porter received a letter asking if it would be possible to send the family some cherries. The father had seen a can of Jordan Brank Cherries in an American Army kitchen. This brought up the question of better international understanding, the club decided that perhaps we as a small group could help if we all found such a family in some country across the ocean and became friends with them by writing letters telling them about our every day life, our beliefs, and letting them know we are their friends and want to lend a helping hand.

Another very worthwhile question was brought to the attention of the club. "What is East Jordan going to do about the ragweed?" Our neighboring towns have been up and at it, but we have settled back in our easy porch chairs, our feet upon our porch railings and let the resort trade go rolling by. Would some other club or organization like to give us a helping hand and see what we can do about making our city "A haven for hayfever sufferers."

Lula, we know that just one candle on that cake didn't tell the truth, but we were all very polite and didnt ask how many more there should have been. We sincerely hope that you have many more happy birthdays and may you always be as happy as you looked with the rays from that one candle upon your face.

Lovely refreshments were served by our assistant hastesses, Mrs. Goodman and Mrs. Scott. We welcomed the good ice cream and cake, we needed to sit back and relax with the refreshing cup of tea. Our evening had been a busy one, we had held the troubles of the world in our hands, educated our members in parliamentary law, and tried to make our City, East Jordan, a better place to live, but then we know that "woman's work is never done."

The next meeting of the East Jordan Study Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Maude Porter, October 12, 1948. An evening of interest to all is planned, so bring your knitting and come.

RED DEVILS DEFEAT PELLSTON HORNETS, THERE, 14 - 7

The East Jordan Red Devils trimmed the Pellston Hornets, 14 to 7 in a hard fought game, Friday, Oct. 1st. By winning this game, East Jordan remains one of the two unbeaten teams in the class C Conference. The other team is, of course the Charlevoix Raiders.

After about five minutes of play, East Jordan blocked a Pellston kick and it was recovered on the Pellston 15 yard line. In several plays it was taken to the 5 yard line where Joe Hammond scored by circling left for the first touchdown of the game. Jim Meredith kicked the extra point giving East Jordan a 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter East Jordan blocked another Pellston punt and the Red Devils recovered on Pellston's 40 yard line. The ball was pushed to the 25 yard line, where Don Cutler passed to Fred Holland scoring East Jordan's second touchdown, Cutler circle right end for the extra point and the Red Devils led 14-0.

With the help of two 15 yard penalties in the third quarter, The Hornets marched to the East Jordan two yard line. After four attempts the ball was carried for a Pellston touchdown by Darcy Stark. Interference was called on the pass attempt for an extra point, and the score, East Jordan 14, Pellston 7.

In the fourth quarter both teams fought desperately but strong defences held them back.

The East Jordan Red Devils are now victorious over Gaylord, Harbor Springs and Pellston.

Friday, Oct. 8th, the Charlevoix Rayders and East Jordan Red Devils will clash for the Class C Conference lead at East Jordan.

Paving Project on US-31 Charlevoix - Bay Shore Being Completed

Paving of the US-31 relocation from Charlevoix to Bay Shore in Charlevoix has been completed with the exception of 800 feet under and near the grade separation south of Bay Shore which will carry the tracks of the Pere Marquette Railway over the highway, according to Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler.

The temporary route from Bay Shore along county roads and through the village of Burgess which has been in effect the past two weeks has been discontinued.

The grade separation is expected to be completed within the next two or three weeks after which work will start on paving the remainder of the new highway. With favorable weather conditions it is hoped the entire project can be completed this year.

The relocation which will run parallel to the present US-31 is 8.141 miles in length and will replace the old highway which was built in 1921 and is badly worn. Loselle Construction Co., Wyandotte, is the contractor and the contract price is $491,851.

Commisioner Ziegler also announced paving of US-31 in the city of Alpena and south has been completed. The project included 1.811 miles of grading and drainage structures, concrete base widening and bituminou concrete resurfacing. Hodgkiss & Douma Co., Petoskey, was the contractor, and the contract price $88,-108.22.

Children Honor Father at Home on Anniversary

Still convalescing from a fractured hip suffered from a fall last June, but in the best of spirits and in good health otherwise, James Malpass, 1976 Clinton Street, Muskegon, observed his 90th anniversary, Saturday, Oct. 2.

Mr. Malpass was born in England, Oct. 2, 1858, and came to the United States 63 years ago. He first settled in East Jordan where he operated a foundry & machine shop. Twenty-six years ago he moved to Muskegon and until nine years ago was with Sealed Corporation.

Since Mr. Malpass is just beginning to sit up after his accident, no celebration was held on his birthday although his children in Muskegon were on hand to give their best wishes. He gets up in a wheel chair for dinner and enjoys being up at least part of the day and hopes to walk in not too far future.

Mr. Malpass had a wonderful day, gifts, flowers, cards and callers. He said, "It was the best birthday I ever had."

He has four children, Mrs. H. F. Farr, Mrs. Stanley Risk and Mrs. Esther Dickie of Muskegon, and E. G. Malpass, of Rock Ledge, Fla.

Mrs. C. W. Sidebotham visited friends in Grand Rapids over the week end.

RAT BAITING CAMPAIGN FOR COUNTY

A county wide rat baiting campaign is being planned for the county by the County Agricultural Advisory council says Walter G. Kirkpatrick, County Agricultural Agent.

Under this program all residents of Antrim County, both country and town, are urged to cooperate in the campaign and bait rats. Bait will be secured through the Predator and Rodent Control Office of the Dept. of Interior and furnished to cooperators at cost. The bait will be mixed with fish and meat all ready to be put out for the rats. The poison used in the bait is specific for rats only and not harmful to family pets or human Yearly, thousands of dollars worth of valuable human and animal food is destroyed by rats.

Further details of the campaign will be given next week.

If we stop and measure ourselves to the standard of what we think of ourselves — perhaps we'd do better.

Cancer Surgery On Cleveland Told

Two Secret Operations on President Disclosed By Surgeon.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—Details of two secret cancer operations performed on Pres. Grover Cleveland at a time when the nation confronted a grave economic crisis were disclosed here by Dr. M. C. Seelig. Dr. Seelig was one of six surgeons who boarded the yacht of a friend of the President's to perform the operations.

Writing in the medical journal, Surgery, Obstetrics and Gynecology, he tells how the operations were performed.

In June, 1893, the country was in financial near-panic and a special session of congress was set for little more than a month away.

Made Hospital Ship.

The economic and political consequences of a disclosure that the chief executive had cancer of the mouth was impossible to predict.

So, late on the night of June 30, the six doctors, the President and his secretary of war, Daniel Lamont, came aboard the yacht. The craft had been converted into a hospital ship.

The next morning the President's entire upper left jaw and a portion of his palate were removed in an hour-long operation as the yacht cruised lazily in Long Island sound.

Dr. Seelig writes that, although President Cleveland was "a poor surgical risk," everything went well. Two days after the operation, he went home.

The physicians deemed a second operation necessary, however, and it took place two weeks later under similar circumstances.

Dentist Helps Out.

Three days before the special congressional session began, the President returned to Washington. A dentist had fitted a specially-constructed vulcanized rubber jaw in place.

As he opened the special session, his voice was firm and strong. Since the operation was entirely inside the mouth, there were no scars to mar his appearance and give away his secret.

Cleveland lived for 15 more years and his death certificate recorded that he died of "heart failure complicated with pulmonary thrombosis."

A short time after the operations the Philadelphia Press printed a story which, according to Dr. Seelig was "uncannily accurate in many respects."

The Press report was angrily denied by L. Clarke Davis, editor of the Philadelphia Public Ledger and a close personal friend of the President, and was generally disbelieved at the time.

Boy Robber Is Disgusted To Learn Mate Is Girl

ATLANTIC, IOWA. — Bobby Wiggs, 12, was thoroughly disgusted after learning that the "fellow" who helped him rob a saloon recently was really a girl, Marjorie Marryfield, 17, of Boston.

"A girl?" he asked. "How can John be a girl? He was a real swell guy."

Marjorie readily admitted her identity when she was alone with a physician in the jail physical examination room.

She had been held in the Audubon county jail at Audubon, Iowa, for three weeks under the name of John Marryfield, aged 14.

The doctor announced that Marjorie was a girl as she went on trial with Bobby on charges of stealing $8 and 14 cartons of cigarettes last Labor Day.

Marjorie is a slight, boyish-looking girl. She appeared in court in the same yellow sweater and dark blue trousers she wore when arrested. Her hair was clipped to a crew cut.

The girl and boy were arrested at Audubon when authorities learned they were selling cigarettes for $1 a carton.

Bobby, who was remanded to his parents' custody because of his age, admitted he and "John" had robbed the saloon.

Young Hunter Forces Pal To Dance to Tune of a Gun

DETROIT, MICH.—Police in suburban Lincoln park were searching for a youthful hunter who forced a playmate to dance to the tune of rifle shots because the latter refused to give him a duck he had shot.

Robert Ferguson, 15, Lincoln park, was wounded slightly in the foot, police said; when an unidentified friend fired four shots at his feet.

Ferguson told authorities he retrieved a duck his playmate had shot and that the boy fired at him when he playfully refused to give it up.

Hiroshima Is Leading Most Cities In Reconstruction

TOKYO. — Hiroshima is leading most other Japanese cities in reconstruction but in nearly two years its has restored only a fifth of the houses destroyed by the atomic bomb, Gen. Douglass MacArthur reported.

A housing shortage induced by wartime destruction of more than half the dwellings in Japan's major cities has been eased but slightly, MacArthur disclosed in his first detailed report on reconstruction.

A key man in the Kim Sigler administration at Lansing, now bidding for another two-year tenure, is John A. Perkins, newly appointed controller of the state department of administration.

Many of the governmental streamlining reforms, advocated unsuccessfully last spring by Governor Sigler, bear the stamp of Perkins and, through him the blessing of political science experts at the University of Michigan. Principal achievement to date is the new state department of administration.

Re-election of Sigler will continue Perkins in the focal point of the reform movement of the state capitol. Hence the controller's views are of more than casual importance. Here are recent quotations:

"Several former governors of Michigan pointed in the direction of the new Department of Administration without reaching the sound conclusion of Governor Sigler. In his first inaugural speech of 1935, Governor Fritzgerald said that, 'an important step in the reorganization of State Government is the elimination of the state administrative board . . . The many administrative duties now vested in the board can be handled better by state officers and their qualified assistants than by the present cumberson board. I have been a member of the state administrative board for four years, and I cannot recall a single accomplishment which could justify its existence.'

"Two years later, Governor Murphy advocated a department of finance 'in which may be centralized and consolidated all accounting functions apart from auditing, budget preparation and financial control, and state purchasing.'

"By 1943 the need had become so obvious that Governor Kelly, after noting that there were excess of 100 agencies of state government, in his inaugural message stated that, 'The constitution makes it clear that it is the duty of Governor to acquaint himself with the problems, accomplishments, and possible improvements of each one of these many and varied departments of state government, striving always to correlate their various activities into an efficient, economical working unit.

" 'In order to fulfill this duty it is my opinion that the Governor should be provided by law with a department to be known as the department of business administration, directed by business administrator under the personal supervision of and directly responsible to the governor, and clothed with proper and adequate authority.' "

Perkins points out that this department, as created by the legislature, lacks the real tools for getting results -- namely, budget control, accounting and purchasing. Hence its death was inevitable, and the legislature ordered it in 1945.

By relieving the state administrative board of these important functions, which were being actually administered by administrative employees not responsible directly to the governor, the Sigler reform would permit the board to become the "governor's cabinet", according to Perkins.

As has been pointed out previously by Perkins in this column, the new department will not result immediately in large dollar savings.

"In the first place, the department's own expenditures may actually increase slightly as it undertakes the long-neglected tasks of better servicing the line departments and institutions and requiring of them better operations Business organizations have long realized that it was wise to spend a dollar in order to save several dollars."

Perkins expresses some concern about the future of the new department.

"Unthinking resentment against increased tax burdens may bring bitter and unfounded criticisms against the department," he states.

Why "increased tax burdens"? Because the State of Michigan, must seek new sources of revenue as a result, " largely although not entirely", of the diversion to local units of a major part of its sales tax revenue.

If the voters of November reaffirm diversion of sales tax revenue to local governments, (as now appears to be likely) Perkins forecasts increased taxes in order to stave off "a defict of millions of dollars."

Looking for someone to blame, voters may jump at the conclusion that Sigler- sponsered reform -- the new state department of administration -- is responsible.

At least, that's the 1948 apprehension of Controller Perkins. Time will tell!

One editorial suggested that the parents and children situation should be turned around occasionally. For what reason—we're not sure—maybe so the parents can hit back without comment.

Someone tried to explain why children destroy things—we suppose one reason is as good as another. The wife says — "just a chip off the old block."

SCRIPTURE: Genesis 11:27—25:11. DEVOTIONAL READING: Hebrews 11: 1-10.

God's View of People

Lesson for October 10, 1948

"YOU can learn more about human nature from reading the Bible than from living in New York," said a Yale professor who had tried it both ways. He was right; for in New York you are likely to see your neighbors only on the outside, while in the Bible you are introduced to people on the inside.

Dr. Foreman

One great value of the Bible is its plain stories about people, all sorts of people—simple, great, wise, foolish, saints and sinners. They lived thousands of miles from here, and thousands of years ago. They dressed differently and many of them spoke in languages now dead. Yet somehow they live in these inspired stories.

• • •

Saints

ONE of the great biographies of the Bible is that of Abraham. If you will read it in Genesis you will see it is not like one of our modern biographies; it does not follow a continuous line, but consists of short incidents strung together sometimes without connection.

It is more like an album of pictures than like a movie. Yet putting all the pictures together we get an impression of a remarkable man.

Indeed, Abraham was one of the most remarkable men who ever lived. Without a church, without a Bible, without prophet or priest or tradition, born in a nation and a family that "worshiped other gods," as Joshua said later, somehow Abraham came to know that there is but one God, and not only to know that as a fact but to know that God as a friend. (In fact, Abraham's name among the Arabs to this day is "The Friend.") We must call Abraham one of the great religious geniuses of all human history.

Yet he does not stand alone. The Bible is a book of saints; the letter to the Hebrews calls the roll of some, and ends by saying time is too short to name them all.

Now a saint is not a person who lives totally without sin. A saint is one in whose life goodness is stronger than evil; a saint is one who actually lives as a friend of God, for whom God is the central fact in all his life.

• • •

Sinners

THESE are no whitewashed plaster saints, the great and small figures of the Bible stories. They come before us just as they were. Abraham, for example, at times was a coward, a liar, a bigamist, a slave-holder.

We must not suppose that everything any character in the Bible did was right, or is right today. The writers simply tell the stories, seldom using adjectives like "bad" or "good" or "noble" or "mean." We are left to make our own judgments.

We are shown what effects sin has on men, we see how evil spreads by suggestion and imitation, we see how temptation works. God inspired the biographers; but he does not inspire men to tell lies or to cover up evil by calling it good. So do not be shocked to find that even a saint like Abraham had feet of clay. The important things about him are the good, not the bad.

• • •

The Light That Shines

FURTHERMORE, when you read these Bible biographies, you can trace a very interesting story through them all: namely the story of the human understanding of Right and Wrong.

But in Old Testament times, as in the case of Abraham, we must remember they were in the dawn-years before the sunlight of Christ had risen. Some of the things Abraham did would get him into jail nowadays; but some of those very acts were then the mark of a gentleman.

Sometime when you are discouraged and think the world is growing worse, all you need to do is to think back to some of these old Bible stories. What the very best people did then, is now by Christians seen to be not always good.

The human race has progressed, and nowhere more than in its knowledge of what is right to do. And even so, a man like Abraham, as good and great as he was, shines with an even brighter light across the centuries, challenging us to rise above our times as he often rose above his own.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Bernadotte's Murder Dramatizes Question of Palestine Before U.N.; East-West Crisis Hits Final Peak

By Bill Schoentgen, WNU Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

HOLY LAND:
Murder

The sullen-faced, uniformed men in the jeep didn't say a word after they had stopped the procession of United Nations cars that was winding through the Katamon section of Jerusalem.

Carrying a machine gun, one of them walked up to the automobile in which Count Folke Bernadotte and Col. Andre Pierre Serrot were sitting, looked inside and started shooting.

Bernadotte

The two killers fled, leaving Serrot dead and Bernadotte mortally wounded. The U. N. Palestine mediator died as he was being carried into Hadassah hospital on a stretcher.

For Bernadotte, head of the Swedish Red Cross, nephew of the king of Sweden, diplomat and humanitarian, it was a wretched, futile end.

His death was mourned not only by governments but by millions of ordinary citizens, yet he died not knowing when or if ever his assiduous and sincere efforts to organize peace in the Holy Land would be fulfilled.

Bernadotte's assassination brought Jerusalem—and all of Palestine, for that matter—perilously close to the brink of general violence. There was danger, too, that the uneasy Arab-Jewish truce might fall to pieces under the circumstances.

For the time being, Bernadotte's killers remained unidentified. The Israeli government called it the work of Stern gang terrorists and issued an edict outlawing that extremist group.

In Oslo, Norway, U. N. Secretary-General Trygve Lie added his panegyric to the praise that was being heaped on the martyred Bernadotte:

"He burned with eagerness to bring about an understanding between Arabs and Jews. He thought always of justice and peace."

FINAL REPORT:
'End It Now'

As the United Nations general assembly convened for its fateful 1948-49 session in the Palais de Chaillot the member nations took time out to pay somber tribute to Count Folke Bernadotte, their representative in Palestine who had died while trying to implement the peace of which they were supposed to be the architects.

Then they began consideration of the plan for an enforced Palestine settlement that Bernadotte had submitted before his death.

THE SWEDISH COUNT'S final 35,000-word report recommended that the Arab-Jewish war should be "pronounced formally ended." If the Arabs and Jews refuse to make peace, the U. N. should do so itself, the report said.

It calls for changes in the boundaries of the U. N. partition plan adopted in November, 1947, proposing that the Negeb desert by given to the Arabs and that the Jews should receive all of Galilee instead of only the eastern part.

Other recommendations include:

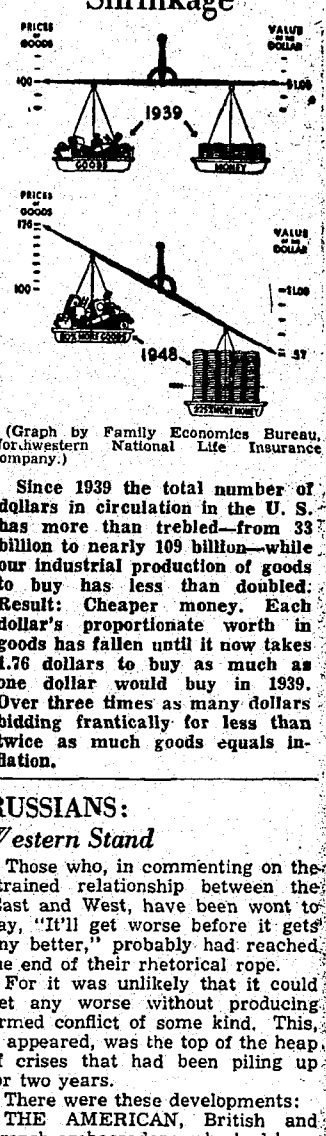

1. INTERNATIONALIZATION of Jerusalem by placing it under U. N. control.
2. ESTABLISHMENT of a technical boundaries commission to delimit the new frontiers.
3. CREATION of a Palestine conciliation commission to deal with population exchanges and supervise other parts of U. N. decisions.
4. SETTLEMENT of the problem of 360,000 Arab refugees by giving them the right to return to their homes in Jewish territory or to receive compensation if they choose not to return.

It was a good plan, the United States thought, and Secretary of State Marshall announced that this nation would back it to the fullest extent. Said Marshall:

"THE UNITED STATES considers that the conclusions contained in the final report of Count Bernadotte offer a generally fair basis for settlement of the Palestine question."

He called it "the best possible basis for bringing peace to a distracted land," adding that "No plan could be proposed which would be entirely satisfactory in all respects to every interested party."

Shrinkage

Since 1939 the total number of dollars in circulation in the U. S. has more than trebled—from 33 billion to nearly 109 billion—while our industrial production of goods to buy has less than doubled. Result: Cheaper money. Each dollar's proportionate worth in goods has fallen until it now takes 1.76 dollars to buy as much as one dollar would buy in 1939. Over three times as many dollars bidding frantically for less than twice as much goods equals inflation.

RUSSIANS:
Western Stand

Those who, in commenting on the strained relationship between the East and West, have been wont to say, "It'll get worse before it gets any better," probably had reached the end of their rhetorical rope.

For it was unlikely that it could get any worse without producing armed conflict of some kind. This, it appeared, was the top of the heap of crises that had been piling up for two years.

There were these developments:

THE AMERICAN, British and French ambassadors, who had been talking with Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov and Premier Stalin in Moscow for six weeks, left the Russian capital, presumably ending the four-power discussions.

THE THREE western powers asked the Kremlin for a simple and final "yes or no" on the question of whether Russia will lift its blockade of Berlin.

U. S. SECRETARY of State George Marshall, speaking before the U. N. general assembly, warned the Soviet Union that American patience should not be mistaken for weakness.

With the Moscow talks at an end the center of action in the crisis had shifted to Paris where the issue would be debated in the U. N.

The western nations—the U. S., France and Great Britain—plainly had had enough and were determined not to give another inch.

In an hour-long speech before parliament, British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin expressed his nation's determination: "We are firmly resolved to go on with our policy.

"I AM NOT SAYING by that that we are committed to war and all the other things that might ensue. We have not reached that stage yet."

Speaking to the United Nations in Paris, George Marshall, U. S. secretary of state, outlined the basic U. S. foreign policy in much the same manner as Bevin. The United States, he said, would not "compromise the essential principles" or "barter away the rights and freedoms of other peoples."

HOME OWNERS:
Record High

One of the most maddening of all the modern paradoxes is that while millions of American families are searching desperately for decent places to live, at the same time more American families own their own homes now than ever before in history.

About 49 per cent of the nation's non-farm families owned their homes at the beginning of this year, it has been revealed by a federal reserve board survey. That comes to a total of 18.5 million city and town families.

Although the survey did not take up farm families, the proportion of home owners among that group traditionally has been much higher than among city dwellers.

THERE'S NO EXCUSE

America's Rural Fire Loss Can Be Cut

Although fire prevention week is over for this year, the danger of farm fires is not over and possibly never will be.

But that seeming inevitability is no excuse. As a matter of fact, fire protection experts say, there is no longer any excuse for America's 100-million-dollar annual farm fire loss.

The means to reduce it are available to almost any community that wants to make the effort.

Principal means of cutting rural fire losses, according to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, is a good volunteer fire department, quartered in a small town but serving the surrounding area that has been organized into a fire protection district, such as now is authorized in 39 states.

? Current Events ?

If you haven't been spending all your evenings taking the dog for a walk or fixing the hen house, chances are you've been reading about some of the events on which the following five questions are based. Can you answer them?

1. The United Nations general assembly recently convened in Paris for a 10 or 12-week fall session. What is the name of the elaborate building in which the assembly is meeting?
2. The American, British and French ambassadors who have been conferring with Molotov recently took their leave of Moscow. Can yon name them?
3. This year, 16 years after he soared 10 miles into the stratosphere in a balloon, a Belgian scientist-explorer plans to plunge two miles under water to investigate the deep sea world. Who is he?
4. Who is the man who took the assassinated Count Bernadotte's place as U. N. mediator in Palestine?
5. Princess Elizabeth of England was in the world spotlight when she got married last November. Now she is in the news again for a different reason. What is it?

ANSWERS

1. Palais de Chaillot.
2. Walter Bedell Smith (U. S.), Frank Roberts (British), Yves Chataigneau (French).
3. Prof. Auguste Piccard.
4. Ralph Bunche, an American, Bernadotte's assistant.
5. She is expecting a baby in November.

PRICE AID:
Sure Thing

One thing is dead sure about the coming election: No matter who gets into office, farm price supports will be continued.

Governor Dewey is on record as favoring the Hope-Aiken law passed by congress last June, and President Truman says he is in favor of farm price supports and has been all along.

BOTH SIDES have promised their help to the nation's farmers.

As a result of the growing amount of light that has been shed upon the idea of price supports there has been a lot of argument as to whether they keep up costs of living in the city and, hence, contribute generally toward inflation.

The system was started in the 1930s to save farmers from bankruptcy caused by surplus production and lack of consumer buying. It accomplished that end.

IT WAS CHANGED during the war to make farmers produce more food than the country needed to feed less fortunate nations who were fighting the Axis. It did that.

After the war this incentive system was continued to keep greater amounts of food flowing into destitute areas abroad. It was successful in that, also.

Now, however, as a result of this artificial stimulation, production is beginning to pile up in the U. S. The wartime pattern of price support no longer fits the American market.

THE POTATO situation is a case in point. As the government continues to stimulate the production of potatoes the guaranteed prices keep consumers from getting the surplus crops at bargain prices, and at the same time the system keeps farmers growing too many potatoes.

Congress this year elected to revise the price support program, effective in 1950, by providing new parity prices based on modern farm practices and by allowing a fluctuation in support levels to conform with general economic conditions.

Dewey and Eggs

In sharp contrast to Henry Wallace's unsavory experience with eggs in the South, the product of the hen brought nothing but good to Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, GOP presidential candidate. At his Pawling, N. Y., farm he was made honorary member of the national "Good Egg" club and was presented with an egg-bedecked plaque by Hobart Creighton (left), GOP nominee for governor of Indiana and president of the Poultry and Egg national board.

ANSWER MAN:
Brannan

When it comes to questions Secretary of Agriculture Charles Brannan gets all kinds, many of which have nothing to do with farming.

Pouring in at the rate of 3,000 a day, the queries vary from: "How do I bury cats in the ground?" to "What was Little Eva's last name in the play, 'Uncle Tom's Cabin?'" and "Can you recommend a lonely hearts club? Three of us girls are interested."

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Get The Truth!

Called on my good friend "Cappy" Miller, who edits the County Bee, the other day. And hanging up on the wall of Cappy's office is this slogan for his paper:

"Remember there are two sides to every question. Get both sides. Be truthful."

A good slogan . . . not just for a newspaper—for people, too. Because there'll always be two sides to every question: the side of those who vote one way, and those who vote another—the side of those who enjoy a temperate beverage like beer or ale, and of those who swear by nothing but cider.

And from where I sit, once you've got both sides—and faced them truthfully, you realize that these differences of opinion are a precious part of what we call Democracy—the right of the individual to vote as he believes, to speak his mind, to choose his own beverage of moderation, whether beer or cider.

Deer Hunting in Wisconsin

One hundred years ago Wisconsin had an all-year deer season. In 1851 the legislature restricted this privilege by creating a limited season beginning July 1 and ending February 1. From then on deer hunting seasons were established annually, with the exception of six years of no deer hunting. Almost all of the thousands of deer taken during these many hunting seasons were by rifle and shotgun hunters. The bow and arrow had no place in the equipment of the deer hunter until recent years. Twenty years ago there was no bow hunting in Wisconsin.

British Admission of DP's

Great Britain now is admitting selected displaced persons at the rate of 5,000 a month. She already has accepted 50,000, twice as many as any other country. The British are giving these newcomers regular instruction in the currency and customs of the land and in the necessary techniques required for their industries. The displaced persons, in short, are being deliberately integrated into the life of post-war Britain.

Woman Gives House To Homeless Family

Makes 10 Happy, But Now Needs Place to Live.

AURORA, ILL. — Mrs. Olive Raymond, in one big-hearted moment, solved the housing shortage for Raymond Lawrence, his wife and eight children. She gave them her house in Aurora to live in. Then she started looking for a furnished room.

"They needed the place worse than I did," she said.

Lawrence, a truck driver, has kept his family of 10 in a frame garage for 11 months behind the home of his eldest daughter, Mrs. Lucille King of Aurora.

Mrs. King and her husband, Frank, fearing for the health of the younger children, aged 2 to 16 years, started eviction proceedings against her parents.

Justice Albert N. Zettinger issued the eviction notice, and Constable Henry G. Reckinger carried it around in his pocket for 30 days while they and the Kings tried to find new lodgings for the Lawrences.

Then the younger children were placed in the Mary A. Goddard Children's home in Aurora.

Mrs. Raymond, who works at the home, looked at the kids and thought of her two-month-old unfinished house on the outskirts of town. She told the Lawrences to move in if they would keep up the payments of $36.50 a month.

"The place is only partly furnished," she said, "but it's a home.

"Myself? I have a daughter I can live with, but I'm going to look for a room.

"A person likes to be independent."

Want a Square Meal? Try Cubed Hen Fruit

CHICAGO. — American families soon will have a new morsel to round out a square meal—a square egg.

Cubed hen fruit, as a matter of fact, already is a reality. The idea was hatched by one David Adams, a Concord, Mass., inventor.

Actually the square egg is a plastic cube designed to hold the contents of a single egg with its shell removed. The hen's job ends when she lays the egg. Science takes over from there.

Adams explained that his square job consists of two parts —the bottom holds the contents of an egg and the top clamps over the sides, airtight.

Breaking of the eggs, packaging and sealing of the shells can be done by automatic machinery, he says.

According to the inventor, the square egg won't break or roll off the table. You save a lot of space in packing it.

Belgian Girl Didn't Know Potency of Her Sly Wink

BRUSSELS.—A girl musician in a cafe in Brussels, Belgium, winked at a soldier recently and then things happened. The soldier's girl friend, Victorine, dragged Jeanette, the musician, from a chair by her hair. The manager threw both girls and the soldier into the street. More soldiers tried to separate the girls, who battled on. A crowd of Italian workers joined the fight, uprooting a gas standard. An emergency squad arrived to stop the escaping gas and police tried to quiet the girls and soldiers, finally arresting them.

At the jail police found the girls had been robbed. They were locked up separately. Victorine tried to strangle herself with a belt. Jeanette tried to hang herself with a length of tape and then attempted to cut off her hand.

Girl Survives 90-Foot Drop, Pulled From Ledge in Park

LURAY, VA.—Plucky 21-year-old Mary Murphy of Washington is alive after tumbling 90 feet from the top of Crescent Rock in Shenandoah National park.

Robert Gibbs, chief forest ranger, said the girl was sitting on top of the high ledge with two of her sisters when she "leaned over and disappeared." Her body caught on a ledge 90 feet below.

She escaped with a broken arm. Forester James Van Weelden arrived a few moments later.

Weelden and Gibbs fashioned a rope ladder and a sling from a ranger's raincoat and for two gruelling hours crawled across the face of the cliff to her rescue.

The rescuers were guid v the girl's voice.

Travelers in Great Britain Assured of Plenty of Food

NEW YORK.—The new austerity rules which recently went into effect in England are domestic in character and do not affect visitors from overseas, Sir Alexander Maxwell, chairman of the British tourist and holidays board, asserted here after his arrival aboard the Queen Mary.

"The food rationing program likewise has no application to foreign visitors who escape entirely the more severe rationing restrictions when staying in our hotels," he said.

Indian Logic

A TOURIST noticed a lazy Indian chief lolling at the door of his wigwam.

"Chief," remonstrated the tourist, "why don't you get a job in a factory?"

"Why?" grunted the chief.

"Well, you could earn a lot of money. Maybe 30 or 40 dollars a week."

"Why?" insisted the chief.

"Oh, if you worked hard and saved your money, you'd soon have a bank account. Wouldn't you like that?"

"Why?" again asked the chief.

"For heaven's sake!" shouted the exasperated tourist. "With a big bank account you could retire, and then you wouldn't have to work any more . . ."

"Not working now," pointed out the chief.

A MYSTERY

Upon being offered some roast chicken, Sam accepted a drumstick.

"Now, Sam, would you like some of this nice stuffing?" asked his mother.

"No, thank you," he replied. And after a thoughtful moment added, "And I don't see why the chickens eat it either."

WORLD WISE

A old farmer was talking to his hired hand.

"I don't hold with all this newfangled stuff they're teaching the kids in school nowadays," he said. "My kid came home the other day and said they taught him that the world was round."

"But the world is round," said the hired man."

"See there!" said the old farmer. "They've even got you believing it."

CIGAR SHORTAGE

First tramp: "This is the first cigar I've had in three weeks."

Second tramp: "What's been the trouble?"

First: "Had lumbago and couldn't bend over."

Modest Wish

A man, frantic to locate a place to live, asked a naturalist if he knew where he could find a house.

The naturalist replied: "House? Boy, you're getting soft. Why don't you live out in the open air, let old Mother Nature cover you with a blanket of stars, and have the blue firmament above as a roof?"

"Frankly," said the man, "I had in mind something a bit smaller."

They Serve A Purpose

"Tell me," said an old gentleman, drawing little Johnny out with good-natured teasing, "what are little boys good for, anyhow?"

Johnny considered the question thoughtfully, then sagely replied, "Well, we're good to make men out of."

A Bit Slim

A disreputable-looking character waylaid a member of a swanky club as he stepped into his car.

"Just gimme a penny, mister," he whined, "I'm starving."

The member of the club obliged, but could not help remarking:

"I'm afraid you won't be able to buy much food for a penny these days."

"It's not for food," said the tramp. "I ain't had a bite now for six days, and I want to weigh myself!"

Mogollons Linked With Earliest Race

Mysterious Indians Connected With Stone Age Men.

CHICAGO. — Dr. Paul Martin of the Chicago Natural History museum disclosed that he has identified the mysterious pre-Columbus Mogollon Indians whose origin the museum has been studying for years.

"We think they were descendants of the earliest New World Indians we have found evidence of—the Cochises who lived in Arizona about 15,000 B. C.," he said.

Dr. Martin, chief curator of anthropology at the museum, was back from his diggings in New Mexico to report newly-discovered links in the story of the old-stone-age men who lived there by gathering and grinding seeds and nuts hundreds of years before the white men came.

It already was known that Dr. Martin and his associates on the expedition had named these seed-eaters Mogollons.

Additional information trickled back last summer from the diggings, to the effect that tools had been discovered indicating that the much older and more primitive race, called the Cochises, had been in this area, wanderers from Arizona.

Dr. Martin revealed that evidence had been found linking up the Mogollons with the Cochises. He displayed the evidence: some rough stone knives, or hidescrapers, of the simplest manufacture, and a well-shaped, well-fired, unpainted pottery jar.

Dr. Martin said that the implements dug up included some tools of type so similar to those used by the ancient Cochises as to indicate that the later people who had left them, and had left the pottery near them, were descended from the Cochises.

This connects the people who lived on the Mogollon site with culture earlier than ancient Egypt, he said.

Dr. Martin pronounced the pottery found the earliest North American examples of this handicraft thus far unearthed.

"We think some wandering Mexican potter who knew how gave the Mogollons the know-how," said Dr. Martin.

Birth of Triplets Seen As Means to Get House

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. — Mr. and Mrs. Edward Connelly are confident their newly arrived triplets will bring them luck.

Their housing problem became much more acute with the birth of two boys and a girl at Cambridge hospital.

Recently evicted from their apartment, the couple and their 19-month-old son, Edward Jr., have been living with Mrs. Connelly's mother because they can't get into a house they bought until present occupants find a replacement.

Horse Too Frisky; Crippled Boy Gets New, Gentle One

CHICAGO. — Maynard Dowell, who gave away 18 horses because he was too busy to enjoy them himself, bought another pony and then gave it away.

One of the 18 gift horses proved too frisky for its new owner, a 10-year-old crippled lad, so Dowell bought a gentle pony for him, and gave the frisky horse to an older boy who had applied for one.

The crippled boy, David Canham of Kankakee, Ill., was one of more than 16,000 persons who wrote the Chicago executive that they would give a horse good care if lucky enough to get one.

Dowell gave David a white Arabian colt in answer to the boy's plea for a "white pony" to exercise his crippled body. Later Dowell took back the colt when "it turned out to be just too much horse." Later he attended a horse sale at nearby Waukegan and bought a gentle red and white spotted pony for David.

Major Corn Crop States Avoid Damage From Frost

WASHINGTON.— The agriculture department reported that 82 per cent of the critical corn crop was "largely safe" from frost damage in the 12 main production states.

This represents a sharp improvement over previous estimates, when only 70 per cent of the crop in these states was reported safe. The 12 states normally would produce about three fourths of the anticipated crop of 2,404,000,000 bushels.

Because of the rapid progress of the crop, the department said, soft corn will be only a minor problem except in Ohio, Michigan and possibly parts of Indiana and Illinois.

CHOOSE CURTAINS FOR BEST EFFECT

Curtains going up? Your home is like a stage in that respect. Put the curtains up first and the rest of the action will follow in good order.

It is easier to match the rest of the redecorating to the curtains than vice versa Julia Tear, of the department of textiles, clothing and related arts at Michigan college says.

So choose your curtains or drapes and then match your paint or paper to them. If possible try out a large sample at the windows of your room before deciding. You can see how the material looks in the daytime and also under artificial light as well as with the other colors in the room.

Attractive and interesting window treatments can do more to make a room attractive than any other one thing. They can do a great deal to improve the appearance of a poorly proportioned room.

Design, color and the texture of the material all play an important part in the window treatment. Each should blend with those features of the other room furnishings.

If you make the curtains, allow enough material for ample folds. It is better to buy a less expensive material than to economize too much on quantity. Sheer curtains should be twice the width of the window. Casement curtains or drapes to be used as draw curtains should also be twice the width of the window. Draperies should be at least one and one-half times the width of the window.

Measuring the length is also very important. Allowance must be made for hems, heading, for possible shrinkage, and for the matching of a pattern.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ranney left Wednesday to visit relatives in Detroit.
